Comments of AB Novaturas CEO Ieva Galvydienė:

In 2025, we continued to operate in conditions of intense competition and excess travel supply. However, our priority was clear – to increase profitability. We intentionally reduced volumes and optimized the travel program, which led to a decline in revenue and the number of travellers carried, but allowed us to improve margins and operational efficiency. We reduced volumes on loss-making routes and focused more on higher-margin destinations, leveraging the wide variety of destinations offered by Novaturas. This resulted in a positive annual EBITDA. We had higher expectations for the end of the year, but the increased supply across the market during the autumn season put pressure on prices, and the disruptions at Vilnius Airport related to illegal cross-border activity involving unmanned balloons reduced last-minute travel demand – all of this limited the result.
